Harvest

Over the last year we have had many scares about our food: from horsemeat in processed foods, to lamb curries with no lamb (or mutton), salmonella turning up in some chicken and spiders in bananas. People are increasingly aware of where their food comes from and what food labels mean. They want to know where and how it started life, how it is produced, what is added to it and how it is processed before it appears on the supermarket shelves. With more than fifty per cent of our food 'home grown', this places a considerable responsibility on our farmers and farming is no easy task.

The weather in recent years has been disastrous for farmers. Whatever the weather may bring, farming is a difficult and challenging way of life. Many farm households rely on a second source of income to supplement whatever profits the farm may produce. Many hours are spent working alone, often in beautiful countryside, but this doesn't make up for the isolation.

The Farming Community (formerly Farm Crisis) Network tries hard to persuade its members to contact them and talk over their problems at the first sign of concern rather than letting a problem fester. They provide support with health, family and farm matters, and the demands on their services have been growing in recent years.

It is the farmers who manage much of God's earth for us. They maintain the hedges, mend the gates, make sure there is space for the wildlife to flourish and dozens of other tasks which keep the countryside fresh for our benefit. Although Didcot may seem as if it is becoming more and more urban and less connected to the countryside, as a Londoner born and bred it is still surrounded by farmland, producing a range of crops (some of which I haven't yet identified) and raising livestock.

As we celebrate Harvest Festival on the first Sunday of October, we remember our farmers – throughout the country – and all the work they do, in all weathers to bring food to our tables. We remember too those who are less able to feed themselves and their families than us and our collection this year will again be for the Didcot Food Bank.

News of old friends

Whilst on holiday in Norfolk in September, I was able to spend a few hours over lunch with Felicity and Ian Randall. Those of you who remember our former vicar will recall that they moved to Clewer on the outskirts of Windsor about 20 years ago. They retired to Fakenham ten years later. They are both well and send best wishes to you all. Felicity is still very involved with the Mother's Union, both locally and in the Diocese. She also helps with the church toddler group (sounds familiar). Ian (he no longer uses the title 'Father') is Chairman of Governors at the local church school, where they both take regular morning assemblies.

A Big Thank You!!!

You may remember at the beginning of the summer we made an appeal for donations towards the purchase of a much needed ride on lawn mower for use at St Peter's.

Many donations have now come in and we would like to thank all those who contributed to funds raised. Without your continued help and support we would not be able to make such purchases as the finances of St Peter's does not readily permit the purchase of unbudgeted but necessary items mid financial year.

In total (including reclaimed tax through the gift aid scheme gift aid) we raised £1265 and this has made a significant contribution to the cost of the new mower.

These donations and your continued help and support now mean that we are able to keep our grounds in good order for many years to come. I think we can all agree the grounds are looking a lot better than they did at the beginning of the grass growing season.

Reflections

As I sit in my study preparing these few words I am enjoying the afternoon sun making my garden look very warm and inviting. We have had more than usual of this sunny weather for this time of year and we are all very appreciative of it I'm sure. These days can be enjoyed by everyone whatever their situation. My mobility is somewhat restricted but I have enjoyed a slow walk up and down my back garden path. I use the warm feeling to bring fond memories of past times which give me that same feeling: seaside holidays, times on the family's farm, living in Cyprus, pushing my granddaughter as a baby in her pram. These memories remind me that God is love and of his part in my life which makes me very thankful. This also gives me help with the rainy times, both the real ones when my windows are covered in heavy raindrops and I look out on a grey day and the rainy times in my life. Rain quite often is warm rain especially with life's challenges if I rely on and trust God's help and resolutions.

My thoughts are also with the church's feast day for St Matthew which we recently celebrated at our Sunday Services. In Chapter 9 of St Matthew's gospel Jesus calls a tax collector to "Follow Me!" and the tax collector did, immediately, leaving his old life behind. This turned out to be a very sunny day for Matthew, the tax collector, since tax collectors were outcasts within the Jewish society since they collected taxes for the Romans and more than that they took more than the Romans demanded and kept the extra for themselves. Matthew followed Jesus for the rest of his life. Jesus chose him as one of the apostles and Matthew spent his life spreading the good news about Jesus and therefore putting sunny days in other people's lives which also helped them cope with their rainy days. I shall continue to enjoy my sunny days, spending them with friends and family and fellowship at church. I know that God will help me with my rainy days through those people and support me in supporting others when I can. I hope that I can have a big smile on my face. How about you? Let us share a smile with everyone we meet.

Balsam Family Project

To all our friends and valued supporters,

As many of you know, the work of Balsam Family Project has been steadily growing for the past five years, bringing much needed love and support to families going through all kinds of struggles. Every term, more families go through our parenting college and would greatly benefit from further support such as 1:1 mentoring or attending our toddler group. We are in great need of more volunteers to be able to keep up this support to all the families that need it. Below is an advert for a couple of positions that we need to fill.

We pray that these opportunities will bring new growth and new friendships for both volunteers and families, and the churches that support them.

Thank you for your help, both past and present, with many blessings,

Sadie

In Commemoration of the Outbreak of World War One Just Fighting?

A series of discussions to consider the ethics of fighting—then and now.

Sunday 12th October

Just war thinking: what is it and how is it Christian?

Sunday 9th November

What we would fight for: what would three 17 year-olds give their lives for today?

The events start at 3.30PM in St Mary's Church, Wallingford.

Great Opportunities to work with Balsam Family Project

Balsam Family Project works to support families with small children who feel isolated or are struggling in some way. The friendship, mentoring and practical support that our volunteers provide makes a big difference. Due to our steady growth over the past few years, we are in great need of more volunteers to work with our families. There are lots of different ways to get involved, but there are two particular roles that we urgently need to fill:

Volunteer Administrator:

On Wednesdays in Harwell, for up to 5 hours. You would be given full induction and training to work with our management team to perform basic administrative tasks that help keep the charity running!

Family Day Helper:

On Thursdays in Didcot Methodist Church from 9:45am to 12noon. You would be trained and CRB checked to help run our toddler group, setting out and packing up equipment, preparing refreshments and chatting with parents or playing with children.

If you are not able to make a regular commitment but would like to help, please consider volunteering a couple of hours at our next fundraiser. Bag-packing on Saturday 11th October at Sainsbury's supermarket for 1-2 hours between 10am and 4pm.

"We plough the fields and scatter the good seed on the land, but it is fed and watered by God's almighty hand"

Until about fifty years ago, the harvesting of the corn was a lengthy and somewhat chancy operation lasting several weeks, involving most of the community and very dependant on fine weather. In Saxon times the start of the harvest was marked with a religious festival of thanksgiving which developed into Lammas, celebrated on August 1st, when loaves made from the first corn to ripen were brought to church to be blessed. No provision was made for this service in the Book of Common Prayer, though it remained a popular folk festival.

It remains popular even though most people now live in towns and cities and bread comes prepacked and sliced! The Church is decorated with a sheaf of corn and other produce which is distributed to the sick of the parish after the service. Sometimes articles produced by local industries are included in the display; the harvest of people's labour. In the olden days country people were afraid that if they cut the last swathe of corn they might kill the Spirit of the Corn, so the last few strands were plaited to form a Corn Dolly, which was kept and ceremoniously buried in a furrow on Plough Monday.

Moses instructed the Israelites to take a basket with the first part of each crop harvested to a place of worship, in gratitude for all that God had given them and to include any foreigners present in their celebrations. In the New Testament, Jesus quite often used the harvest theme and the pruning of unproductive fruit tree branches to illustrate his teaching. The seed, or the Word of God, is sown in us where it may lie dormant, be misunderstood or smothered by worldly concerns, but if it is understood and acted upon it yields an abundant harvest. So, as we sing to God at harvest time -
Accept the gifts we offer for all thy love imparts, and, what thou most desireth, our humble, thankful hearts.

Lenore Harris.
